PROPOSAL	This is a small tree on the west boundary, approx .10m high. It has recently has developed a lean, as the weight of foliage, incl ivy, has adversely affected the roots. We do not want to remove the tree, as it is very popular with wildlife/birds, instead, we propose a crown reduction of approx. 2m, to reduce the pressure on tree roots and trunk.

PROPOSAL	T2 Crab apple - fell. - Earlier applied i for the following to the same tree: Summer prune to prevent growth of height and encourage a lower canopy. However, as the year has progressed, the crab apple has defoliated by over 75% and dieback has set in. It's an old tree - nearly 80 years - and is coming to the end of its life. It will be missed (especially the crab apple jelly that was made from its fruit) but we feel that any pruning to extend its life would need to be hard and the tree would not have the energy to respond well.
