SEND DIVERSE PATHWAYS OF DEVELOPMENT

Course Outline:

This is in person classroom based training by early childhood specialist, Kerry Murphy, who has lived experience of neurodivergence and disability.

For too long, child development has been presented as universal, with the expectation that all children are travelling down the same developmental pathway. When they do not, children are often described as delayed or deficient. This training reframes development through a diversity lens, showing that there are many valid ways to play, think, learn, regulate, and sense the world. By broadening our understanding of child development, we can plan more meaningful experiences and truly give development the chance to unfold.

Course Aims: This course equips participants with knowledge & skills to

- understand the purpose and scope of the Diverse Pathways of Development project and its relevance for early years practice.
- identify how dominant models of child development can marginalise neurodivergent children, and how to reframe these through affirming approaches.
- learn practical ways to support diverse pathways of development, with a focus on autistic development

Target Participants:

- Leaders & Managers
- Setting SENCO
- Childminders
