ROYAL borough of GREENWICH

NextGen Grants Prospectus Round 1

NextGen Grants Prospectus

About NextGen Grants

NextGen Grants is a children and youth-focused funding programme established by the Royal Borough of Greenwich. It provides grants to deliver positive activities for children and young people. Organisations from Greenwich and beyond are invited to apply. Funded activities must be for children and young people that live or attend school in Greenwich and are aged 5-18 (up to 25 with SEND and/or care leavers). Through the current round (Round 1) organisations can apply for funding of between £5,000-£30,000 (a Launch grant) or >£30,000-£130,000 (a Grow grant), both of which are for delivery over two years from April 2027 to March 2029. NextGen Grants is a key element of NextGen Greenwich.

NextGen Greenwich is Royal Greenwich's new children and youth offer. Built on extensive research and consultation with children, young people, families and our wider community, it will enable children and young people to realise their ambitions, while also supporting and growing our valued Voluntary, Community and Faith Sector (VCFS). The programme includes three elements: NextGen Youth, NextGen School Aged Health and Wellbeing Service (SHAW) and NextGen Grants. All elements centre youth voice and choice, ensuring that services are built on the needs and priorities of our children and young people. Read more and sign up for updates here

This document shares information about NextGen Grants for prospective applicants, setting out aims, values, priorities and important guidance about who can apply and for what.

Aims

1. NextGen Grants will empower children and young people in Greenwich, supporting them to gain confidence, resilience and a sense of belonging through fun, positive activities that reflect their priorities.

2. The fund will also support our Royal Greenwich mission to strengthen the Voluntary, Community and Faith sector, enabling organisations to provide more quality support to children and young people most in need.

Values

NextGen Grants is underpinned by four values developed by children and young people. They want the activities delivered to align with the values and for adults involved to use these to help guide how and why we do things. Applications for funding should be grounded in these core values

- Youth-led – youth voice and choice at the heart
- Imaginative – recognising the importance of creativity and fun
- Authentic – true to Greenwich, reflecting who we are
- Community – embedded in our community and strengthening links

Priorities

The fund will support projects delivered in Greenwich that provide positive activities for children and young people aged 5-18 (up to 25 with SEND and/or care leavers) who live or attend school in Greenwich. Children and young people have identified six NextGen Greenwich priorities (see below) and activities funded through NextGen Grants must align with one or more of these.

Our Present & Future: Activities that will support our present and future by acting as a launchpad to real-world experiences, life skills and opportunities to see what the future could hold for us.

Our Support: Activities that support us with consistent and compassionate help that is available in ways that work for different people and situations.

Our Safety: Activities that will support our cultural, physical and emotional safety by giving us access to the spaces and education we need to make informed choices and feel protected at school, online, and in our communities.

Our Voice: Activities that will support our voice and choice by empowering young people to shape services and share information in ways that feel relevant and respectful.

Our Health: Activities that will support our health by making mental, emotional and physical wellbeing support easy to access, trustworthy, and built around what young people actually need.

Our Relationships: Activities that will support our relationships by allowing us space to build strong connections with others and feel supported at home, in school, and in our communities.

The 'Example Activities Table' below provides guidance about the kinds of activities that could be delivered. This has been informed by:

- Consultation with children and young people for NextGen Greenwich
- Greenwich's 2025/2026 Schools Health Education Unit Survey (6,105 5-19 Yr olds from 46 schools took part in 2025)
- Greenwich public health priorities
- Workshops with VCFS organisations
- Discussions with Greenwich Children's Service professionals

However, we know that applicants' knowledge and expertise will mean you are aware of wider activities that will enable young people to reach their potential, under these priorities. These ideas are welcome where strong evidence of need and youth voice is provided.

See also Appendix A: What We Heard From Young People for a visual representation of feedback.

Impact of Next Gen Grants

You can see the full NextGen Grants Theory of Change below. This shows how we anticipate the NextGen Grants will lead to Greenwich's children and young people reaching their full potential.

Activities, outputs, outcomes and impact – what are these?

Activities are the interventions under one or more of the 6 NextGen Grants priorities – e.g. health-related sports activities for cyp aged 10-15.

Outputs are what will actually be delivered and can be quantified - e.g. 150 children and young people participating, 10 workshops delivered, 6 events delivered, 15 sessions run. You will be asked to set these out clearly your application.

Outcomes are the changes that happen as a result - e.g. cyp have improved physical health.

Impact is the broader, longer-term difference the activities contributes to – e.g. children and young people reach their full potential.

Outcomes

NextGen Grants projects should aim to deliver outcomes that help achieve the overall impact – that Greenwich children and young people reach their full potential. There are 6 NextGen Grants Outcomes. These are set out in the table below, alongside indicators that can be used to measure them.

Priority	Outcome	Indicators
Our Present & Future	CYP have improved life skills / understanding of opportunities & feel more prepared for the future	Number and % of cyp reporting improvement in life skills. Number and % of cyp reporting improved understanding of opportunities. Number and % of cyp reporting feeling more prepared for the future. Number and % of cyp taking a next step in their progression i.e. securing a job interview, applying for course. Number and % cyp that gaining new skills / qualifications. Number and % of cyp people taking up work or volunteer placement/experience opportunities
Our Support	CYP feel more supported and have improved knowledge of support available and how to access it.	Number and % of cyp reporting improvement in feeling supported. Number and & of cyp reporting improved knowledge of support available & how to access. Number and % of cyp reporting increased self-esteem and confidence.
Our Safety	CYP feel safer at home, in the community and online.	Number and % of cyp reporting improved feelings of safety. Number and % of cyp reporting improved knowledge of how to keep themselves safe.
Our Voice	CYP feel more empowered and are heard, influencing decisions / change.	Number and % of children and young people reporting feeling empowered and heard. Examples of decisions/changes cyp's input has led to.

Our Relationships	CYP have improved positive relationships that make them feel supported.	Number and % of cyp reporting improved positive relationships. Number and % of cyp feeling more supported. Number and % of cyp reporting increased self-esteem and confidence.

We also expect NextGen Grants to also have a positive impact on Voluntary Community and Faith Sector (VCSF) organisations in Greenwich, supporting these to strengthen and provide more support to the most in need.

Which outcomes do activities need to achieve? How do we measure them?

Applicants will be asked to select from the NextGen Grants outcomes. During delivery, grantees will need to track the impact of their project against the outcomes, identifying the indicators they are focusing on and using a NextGen Grants Outcome Measurement Tool (e.g. a baseline and exit outcome star or post-activity survey), which the NextGen Team will develop with children and young people. Grantees may also want to use other tools, for example locally developed tools that your organisation uses to measure impact (including case studies and questionnaires), alongside widely used validated tools, to gather more detailed information about the impact of activities (e.g. the Stirling Children's Wellbeing Scale, Strengths and Difficulties Questionnaire, and Warwick Edinburgh Mental Wellbeing Scale). Information about these and other validated tools can be found on the Child Outcomes Research Consortium's Outcome Measures Directory, found here.

Funding Available

Total funding of c. £800,000 is available for delivery across Financial Years (FY) 27/28 and 28/29. For Round 1 Launch and Grow Grants we expect to allocate c. £700,000, with the remaining funding allocated through Youth Innovate and Response Grants during 2027 and 2028.

- NextGen Launch grants are for between £5,000 and £30,000 for delivery across 2 years, from April 2027 to March 2029.

- NextGen Grow grants are for between >£30,000-£130,000 for delivery across 2 years, from April 2027 to March 2029.

- NextGen Youth Innovate grants are likely to be for between £2,000-£5,000 for delivery over 1 year. We are developing NextGen Youth Innovate grants with children and young people, including carefully planning what support will be provided. We will launch these in 2027. These are not currently open for application.

- NextGen Respond grants are likely to be for between £2,000-£5,000 with a flexible delivery period. Through these, we will ensure that some funding remains available to respond to any emerging issues during the 2 years of delivery. These are not currently open for application.

You can see the grant types in the NextGen Grants Grant Types diagram below.

Organisation Location

Organisations from Greenwich and beyond are invited to apply. While we highly value local knowledge and experience, we also know that expertise and skills from outside the borough may add to our offer for children and young people. All activities must be based in Greenwich and for children and young people that live in Greenwich or at school in the borough.

Effective Allocation of Resources

Our resources as a council are limited, so we need to focus our investment where it can make the greatest difference. This means responding to local need and inequalities. This also means a fair distribution across our neighbourhoods, ensuring interventions and services are delivered where people need them most.

We also need to ensure that resources are used as effectively as possible. We will focus on funding complementary activities that cover gaps in statutory provision to ensure there are co-ordinated, engaging and stimulating activities for children and young people. Applicants will need to demonstrate that their organisation has appropriate links or networks in Greenwich and, where possible, that activities have been designed in consultation with children and young people.

Inclusion and Equity

All NextGen Grants projects must be inclusive and, wherever possible, bring together children and young people from diverse communities across the Royal Borough of Greenwich. Applicants will need to demonstrate how their project will respond to the needs of the children and young people they serve, including making reasonable adjustments to ensure activities are accessible and inclusive.

Our ambition is to fund a broad range of high-quality projects that are open and accessible to all children and young people who live or go to school in the Royal Borough of Greenwich, promoting inclusion, participation, and positive opportunities for everyone.

We are committed to advancing equality and equity across the Royal Borough of Greenwich. Applicants should demonstrate how their proposed project will contribute to reducing inequalities and improving outcomes for children and young people. We have developed a NextGen Data Pack (see below) should to inform your application, helping you understand local need and evidence how your activities will reach and engage communities that may face additional barriers to participation.

Locations

We welcome and encourage applications for projects delivering in any part of our borough. We want to achieve a good spread of activity for all Greenwich's children and young people. Projects should where possible bring together children and young people from different communities and locations in Greenwich.

We know that there are different barriers that children and young people growing across the borough face. We encourage applicants to consider data such as the Indices of Deprivation Affecting Children (IDACI) and other geographically mapped data that highlights inequity of experiences. Our NextGen Data Pack (see below) will support this, but we know applicants will also bring significant local knowledge and expertise that will be valued within applications.

Data Pack

We have developed a NextGen Greenwich Data Pack to share key information that may support your application. You can access this on the 'How to Apply' page of our website here. You do not have to use the pack; we also value your own research and local insights and knowledge.

- Foreign travel
- Activity that replaces government funding or is a statutory responsibility
- Activities where people are excluded on the basis of religion, sexual orientation, gender or ethnicity (unless the issue is group-specific).

Child Protection and Safeguarding

Child protection and safeguarding are paramount. Applicants must demonstrate a strong commitment to best practices and demonstrate that they maintain robust safeguarding policies and procedures. Your child protection and safeguarding policy will be viewed by assessors as part of the assessment process. Any personal information supplied will be processed in accordance with relevant data protection legislation and guidance.

Due diligence may include the Council checking its own records (for example related to any debts, Council property lease/hire arrangements and prior performance) and conducting external checks, (e.g. including financial checks, complaints and Ofsted reports/inspection outcomes) as part of assessing the veracity of info provided by applicants and their suitability to deliver activities. In submitting an application providers are giving consent for due diligence checks to be conducted, and understand that the results of these may inform decision making. We may request written evidence from your organisation regarding information you have submitted – for example evidence of approval from your landlord for venue use.

We require organisations that have submitted an application to inform us of any changes to their status, or to the information in the application they have submitted, during the period subsequent to application submission.

If required, we may request additional information or supporting documentation before making a funding decision.

Monitoring & Evaluation

If your application is successful you will be asked to complete monitoring reports about delivery. These are likely to include

- Financial records of how the grant is spent, including a budget tracking actual spend against forecast spend, receipts and invoices, must be kept and made available on request.

Social Impact

The Royal Borough of Greenwich is committed to delivering the best possible outcomes for its communities through services it delivers directly, through external provider contracts and grants, and through its strong relationships with the voluntary, community and faith sector.

We encourage applicants to demonstrate how their projects will create and deliver positive social, economic, and environmental outcomes that benefit local people in addition to what is being funded by the grant.

This could include how projects will:

- Improve the health, wellbeing, and resilience of local communities.
- Create opportunities for local people through employment, training, volunteering, or skills development.
- Adopt an equity and inclusion approach by reducing barriers to participation and supporting underrepresented groups.
- Strengthen community connections and foster collaboration between organisations, residents, and local partners.
- Support environmental sustainability through responsible use of resources, carbon reduction, biodiversity enhancement, or other climate-positive actions.
- Deliver long-term benefits that continue beyond the funding period.

We are committed to building a meaningful monitoring and evaluation framework that helps us tell our collective story about equity and social impact and demonstrates the impact of funded activities across all grant themes.
We understand that social value will be proportionate to the size of the grant you are requesting and your organisation's capacity.

Use of AI

We appreciate that AI is a handy tool that might be able to save time but be careful about 'overusing' it. Please always check the accuracy and relevance of AI support. It is much better to use AI to refine what you have already written. AI tools don't necessarily capture your work or what makes your application stand out. Our NextGen Grants values are Youth-led, Imaginative, Authentic and Community. Assessors, including young assessors will be looking for this in your application. When applications are assessed, it is important to hear the knowledge and skills of those who will be delivering. AI cannot replace or replicate an organisation's passion and knowledge of the work they undertake.

Systems

Grantees will be required to use centralised online management systems provided by the Royal Borough of Greenwich, for example for the registration of children taking part in activities. Further information will be shared prior to delivery.

Commitments and Support

Grantees will be expected to sign up to the following commitments and undertake specific training as part of their formal grant agreements. You can sign up to specific offers through the links here
